Subject:	A wiki for customer-contributed content
Description:	Customer-contributed content would be useful. Some of the pages on bitfolk.com are also becoming unwieldy, notably http://bitfolk.com/customer_information.html, so that might be better done in a wiki as well. Redmine has a wiki. MediaWiki is probably more flexible and better-known.

MediaWiki has been installed at https://tools.bitfolk.com/wiki and the LDAP auth extension used to allow customers to log in with the usual credentials. Editing will only be allowed for logged-in users.

The interface still needs to be reskinned to look more like a bitfolk site, and then it should be ready for content to be added.
